APOSTOLIC PLAINESS.

To Be Preached in High Point —Other Notes.

Correspondence of The Telegram. High Point, May 17.—Rev. T. C. Hodgin, the "Sanctified" evangelist will this evening commence a series of meetings in a tent pitched on the land of the High Point Development Company. He announces that he will preach apostolic plainness and be assisted by other ministers and religious workers.

Last Sunday at St. Delight church from four to five thousand people assembled to hear preached the sermon of the late Dr. L. I. Bodenheimer, a missionary Baptist preacher. Rev. P. D. Gold and others had charge of the services.

Mr. Moss, of Charlotte, was here Tuesday looking for a store room in which to open a 5 and 10 cent store. He will locate here.

Mr. W. C. Best has accepted the position of bookkeeper for the American Lumber Company.

Mr. W. M. Earle, of this place, has applied for a patent on an adjustable cot and bed. It is especially a useful article for doctors.

Miss Capel, of Troy, is visiting the Misses Alexander.

Miss Annie Reynolds, of Greensboro, attended the social gathering at the Graded School last evening.

Miss Chandler, of Gastonia, is visiting the Misses Smith on Steele street.

Mr. D. B. Bodenheimer has bought out the interests of Harry & Smith, in the livery business and will continue the business at the old stand.

BISHOP TWEED, CENSOR.

Jacksonville People Adopt a Plan to Insure Correct News Being Given Out.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 16. At the morning meeting of the relief association, it was deemed necessary, owing to the conflicting reports sent through the country by individuals which tend to confuse the public mind, to create an authoritative channel through which must be sent all information relating to our suffering people. A press representative was appointed in the person of Edwin G. Weed, bishop of the diocese of Florida, and the Associated Press as the channel of transmission of the appeal and statements as to the needs of the people.

So the public is informed that all statements as to our needs, all requests and all proclamations, unless signed by Bishop Weed, or sent by his direct authority, are not to be given credence by the people and in no way voice the organization that is charged with the relief in Jacksonville.

New York, May 16.—The Jacksonville relief committee of the chamber of commerce and the Merchants Association have received a dispatch from Jacksonville announcing the receipt of four carloads of cots and mattresses. These cars left New York on Saturday.

An appeal was also made by the local relief committees to the pastors of all churches of Greater New York, asking them to co-operate in raising funds for paying laborers for removing the debris. The theatrical managers also have been appealed to.

New York, May 16.—The total subscription to the Merchants' Association and Chamber of Commerce, to the Jacksonville relief fund up to 5 o'clock today, was $45,552.25.

THE WEATHER.

For North Carolina—Partly cloudy tonight and probably showers, Saturday showers.

Greensboro—Highest temperature past twenty-four hours ending eight o'clock this morning 80, lowest 58. Rainfall .12.

It isn't always the best woman in the world that's best for a good man.

MRS. MCKINLEY BETTER.

Upon Awakening To-day Asked For a Cup of Coffee.

By Wire to The Telegram. San Francisco, May 17.—Mrs. McKinley's physicians decided at noon owing to her improved condition they would not hold another consultation until 8 this evening. The patient on awakening asked for a cup of coffee. She looks much better today than she did yesterday.

PRONOUNCED EARTHQUAKE.

Felt at Several Places in Ohio and West Virginia.

By Wire to The Telegram. Wellston, Ohio, May 17.—A pronounced earthquake was felt here early this morning. The first disturbance was of sufficient force to awaken many and was followed by two hard tremors of the earth that displaced furniture in many houses.

Fronton, Ohio, May 17.—The earthquake shocks felt here early today were a succession of violent undulations almost merged together and lasted thirty seconds. Many residents were aroused and some unseated by the rocking motion of the earth.

Columbus, Ohio, May 17.—An earthquake was felt at Zanesville, Portsmouth, and Huntington, W. Va.

ANOTHER FAILURE.

Gurley & Johnson Fail to Open Their Doors This Morning.

By Wire to The Telegram. Washington, May 17.—Gurley & Johnson, the second largest brokerage firm in the city, correspondents of Wanenburg and Attorburg of New York failed to open their doors for business this morning. Their liabilities are two hundred thousand dollars in excess of their assets. The open accounts on their books foot up half million dollars. Richard A. Johnson, the youngest member of the firm, is son-in-law to ex-Senator Gorman of Maryland, William B. Gurley the senior member is a son of the late Rev. Mr. Gurley who was an intimate friend of Abraham Lincoln.

BRICKLAYERS STRIKE.

Fifteen Thousand Walked Out In New York.

By Wire to The Telegram. New York, May 17.—Fifteen thousand bricklayers struck today. The union championed the cause of eighty bricklayers who demanded that they be paid four dollars and forty cents a day for the three weeks they were compelled to lay off at the Stokes apartment house, their places having been taken by the roofers. The idleness of the fifteen thousand men presents a serious aspect.

STRIKERS TURN NOW.

So Say Their Sympathizers—City Under Martial Law.

By Wire to The Telegram. Albany, N. Y., May 17.—Owing to the conflict between the strikers and the strikers reported, martial law has been declared in the state capital. The city is under military control. The strike sympathizers say it is their turn to shoot and are now arming.

COLORED DOCTORS TO MEET.

The North Carolina Medical Association of Colored Physicians, Surgeons and Pharmacists will meet in Durham, N. C., May 21, 22, 1901. The officers of the Association are: A. M. Moore, M. D., President, Durham. J. Lot Bullock, M. D., Secretary, Greensboro.

AN APPROVED STATEMENT.

Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"A Connecticut parson calls attention to the fact that in both houses of the present Congress there is but one man who has written a book."

"Good thing!"

A MYSTERIOUS MURDER CASE.

CENSUS BUREAU CLERK SHOT IN HIS ROOM IN WASHINGTON.

The Most Important Clue is in the Testimony of a Neighbor, Who Says that He Saw a Woman in Night Clothes Leave the Room by a Window and Descend the Fire Escape.

Washington.—The entire Washington detective force is engaged on a murder case which has all the contradictions and mysterious elements of the Sherlock Holmes stories. An uproar was heard in a family hotel—The Kenmore—last night at about 2 o'clock. Three shots were fired; a voice cried twice for help, a wild commotion ensued, and in the morning the police found in one of the hotel rooms the dead body of James Seymour Ayres Jr., 21 years old, of unoffending disposition and apparently unblemished record. He had been shot three times.

The only clue lies in the testimony of a neighbor, who says that he saw a woman leave the window of the young man's room and in several blood stains found on the fire escape and along the corridor. No arrests have been made. Policemen, detectives and newspapermen have crowded through the hotel all day. Every guest has been examined more than once. The neighbors have been questioned. As near as can be learned the young man had no attachments of any sort. There was no motive which could reasonably prompt a murder, and nobody knows anything more than the meagre outline given above.

The victim was a clerk in the Census Bureau and was appointed from Michigan. His father, J. S. Ayres, Sr., is an insurance agent and lives at Grand Rapids. The youth was a student in a dental college and had just passed his final examination. He was known to the other guests only through casual conversation about the dinner table and through their association with him at the few dances given through the winter. By everybody's testimony he bore himself with dignity and kept entirely free from such alliances as that suggested by the murderer. Last night he returned to the hotel at midnight, spoke casually to two or three young men about the lobby, and retired.

The pistol shots and the cries for help awoke nearly all of the boarders. Heads were thrust from all the windows at once and two or three men called out, "What's wrong down there?"

A voice, evidently that of a woman, replied, "I don't see anything here," and a minute later, "I've heard some pistol shots." There was some scattered comment, the windows began to close one by one, and as no one seemed inclined to investigate, no investigation was made. The women in the hotel could be heard dragging chairs to wedge them under the door knobs and that was the end of the disturbance.

In the morning, as Ayres did not respond when called, a policeman was sent for. When the door had been broken open the young man was seen doubled forward in a pool of blood near the window. His undershirt, his only covering, was stained by blood and powder. He had been shot three times, once just over the heart, once in the left arm and once in the left thigh. A report was made that he had committed suicide.

With the arrival of the Coroner, however, the case took on a different aspect. A torn fan was picked up from the floor and the pistol found on the trunk within about three feet of the body. Both barrel and trigger of the pistol were covered with blood. But the handle was quite clean. Outside on the fire escape two clots of blood were found in such places that they could not have been caused by blood spurting from Ayres' wound. Moreover two shots in his left side had entered from behind and inclined toward the right.

Detectives were summoned to examine the hotel and question guests.

Down the fire escape two flights were discovered several blood stains then two or three near the window, inside the corridor, and then a blotch, such as might have been caused by the brushing of blood-stained garments.

Of the versions given by the young man's fellow boarders, only two were noteworthy: The young woman who occupied the room next his, Miss Kate Lawlor, an employee in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, says she slept throughout the whole disturbance, and Miss Mary Minas, who is a clerk in the Census bureau and has the room on the other side of that occupied by Ayres, says she distinctly heard the shots and confusion, but was too frightened to make any outcry.

Thomas M. Baker, a clerk in the Fish Commission, has a room in a house near the Kenmore, from which he saw more than any one else. He is confident that a woman, in her night dress stepped out of the window in Ayres' room, descended the fire escape slowly, and left the iron stairway at the point marked by the blood stains. Mrs. Warfield, wife of the hotel proprietor, volunteered the theory that Ayres had shot himself accidentally and had then killed himself because of the great suffering that followed. Both Mrs. Warfield and her husband have left the Kenmore and gone to another hotel under their management—the Takoma Park Hotel, in Takoma Park, Md.

A GRAVE QUESTION.

Marked Decline in Number of Applicants for Ministry.

Little Rock, Ark., May 16.—The sixteenth annual session of the Southern Presbyterian General Assembly began here, today, the opening session being called to order by the retiring moderator, George J. Martin, of Little Rock. Dr. Neander M. Woods, of Memphis, who was this afternoon elected moderator, preached the opening sermon. He was assisted by the venerable Dr. G. W. Roggs, of Holly Springs, Miss., who was a member of the first Southern Presbyterian Assembly, in Augusta in 1861. There were upward of 200 ministers present.

Dr. N. W. Woods, of Memphis, Dr. R. P. Kerr, of Richmond, Va.; Dr. G. R. Beatty, of Louisville, Ky.; and Dr. T. H. Branson, of Richmond, Ky., were candidates for moderator. Dr. Woods was elected by acclamation. He was nominated by Dr. Kerr, of Virginia, and the nomination was seconded by Dr. Beatty of Kentucky.

The afternoon session was devoted to the reading and referring of reports on education and colored evangelization and the reports of the executive committees on foreign missions.

Dr. R. H. Fleming, of Lynchburg, Va., presided during the afternoon session the moderator being engaged in making up the committees. A special committee with Dr. F. R. Beattie, of Louisville, Ky., as chairman, will report a scheme for a more efficient provision for the aged and infirm ministers. A catechism on church government has been proposed by a committee headed by Dr. R. P. Kerr, of Richmond, Va., and will be submitted to the Assembly. It is for use in Sunday schools and Bible classes. Another question that will excite deep interest is that of abandoning the international system of Sabbath school lessons for another, which makes a more graded study. The question of the marked decline in the number of candidates for the ministry will occasion grave study.

The assembly will be asked to provide for the consolidation of the Danville Seminary under the control of the Northern Synod of Kentucky and the Louisville Seminary, under the control of the Southern Synod of Kentucky and Missouri. This evening a meeting of welcome was held, address of welcome being delivered by Chief Justice Bunn, of the Arkansas Supreme Court, and others.

Adversity is an egg from which experience is hatched.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

One of Them Has Just Been Recognized by the Illinois Legislature.
Chicago Journal.

The passage of a law by the general assembly at late session giving mothers, equally with fathers, the right of guardianship over minor children strikes off one of the last shackles from woman in which the common law bound her. "The parents of a minor shall have equal powers, rights, and duties concerning the minor. In case the father and mother live apart, the court may, for good reason, award the custody and education of the minor to either parent, or to some other person."

The progress of the emancipation of woman from a state of martial slavery and self-effacement before the law has been long and painful. It was in 1792 that Mary Wollstonecraft struck the first blow for her sex in her once celebrated book, "The Vindication of the Rights of Woman." This was a plea for equality of education, a protest against the assumption that woman was only the plaything of man, and asserting that intellectual companionship was the chief, as it is the lasting, happiness of marriage.

So far as this part of her work is concerned it is unanswerable, and her arguments have lain at the base of all the reforms accomplished in behalf of woman. Unfortunately she mixed up with her main theme several more dangerous and more questionable topics not usually mentioned in books for general circulation, discussing them with a plainness of speech and want of reticence that turned opinion against her. But she started a great movement that has gone on from that day to this, particularly in this country until at last a married woman is on an equality with her husband before the law. She can dispose of her property by will; her individuality is no longer merged in that of her husband; she can possess manage and, and convey her own real and personal property in a large proportion of the states; she has equal rights under the divorce laws; she is made liable for family expenses, if she has a separate estate, and she can sue and be sued as if she were a single woman.

It has taken years of hard and persistent labor and agitation to bring about these just and equitable reforms, but in Illinois at least they are at last accomplished, as they are indeed in a large proportion of the states. Among those deserving of commendation for strenuous labor in behalf of this last reform is Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch, of Chicago, whose active work and arguments at Springfield did much to secure the passage of the bill. Her pamphlet, entitled "Mr. Lex" is a most admirable presentation of the wrongs of woman under the old law, which gave the father almost despotic control over his children while his mother was absolutely powerless.

After July the 1st next this will no longer be the law.

A Remarkable Person.

Father John Sergieff, the author of the little book "Truths About God," is in many ways remarkable person. He is a priest of the Orthodox or Greek Catholic church, and his fame has spread outside the confines of Russia, where, at Cronstadt, he lives. His life, we are told, recalls those of the first Apostles. He is a man of extraordinary devoutness and simplicity of life, and is credited with remarkable healing powers. "To those who believe in Father John—and their name is legion—the age of miracles not yet over. Crowds press around him whenever he leaves his humble abode, and are happy if they can only touch the hem of his modest garb. Father John's life is one of uninterrupted and self-sacrificing charity and Christian ministration among the poor, the sick and the needy; not, however, refusing his presence and his prayers to the well to do and the rich, who send for him when other help fails, and never in vain, from all parts of the country." E. C. Goulaeff, who has translated the book, testifies that his daughter's deafness was cured by Father John's prayer for her in house.

Some women are so much interested in fashion plates that they would like to have their meals served on them.

SSS
PEOPLE

Bad Circulation is the cause of most of the ills that come with old age. With advancing years there is a decline of strength and vigor—the machinery of the body moves with less speed and accuracy. Because of the weak and irregular action of the heart the blood moves more slowly, becomes impure and loses much of its life-sustaining properties, and muscles, tissues and nerves literally starve for lack of nourishment. A sluggish and polluted circulation is followed by a long train of bodily ailments. Cold feet, chilly sensations up and down the spine, poor appetite and digestion, soreness of the muscles, rheumatic pains, hard and fissured skin, face sores, chronic running ulcers on the lower limbs and other parts of the body—these and many other diseases peculiar to old people are due to a lack of healthy blood and imperfect circulation. Restoration to health must come through the building up and purification of the blood, thus adding strength and tone to the vital organs and quick, healthy action to the circulation.

S. S. being strictly a vegetable blood remedy and the best tonic, makes it the most valuable and efficacious of all medicine for old people. It is free from all mineral ingredients, and mild and pleasant in its action. It cures blood diseases of every character, even those inherited or contracted in early life. As the system gets under the influence of S. S. there is a marked improvement in the general health, and as richer and purer blood begins to circulate through the body the appetite improves, and there is a softness and elasticity about the skin that you have not noticed for years; sores begin to heal, pains in muscles and joints gradually cease, and you find that it is possible to be happy and healthy even in old age.

Our medical department is in charge of physicians who make a study of blood and skin diseases. If you would like to have their opinion and advice in your case, write them all about it and you shall receive such information and advice as you want. This will cost you nothing. Others have found our medical department of great benefit to them—their cure being much more rapid as the result of some special directions received from our physicians.

Don't be your own doctor when you can get medical advice free. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed to all who desire it.

GREEKS LIKE THE OPEN AIR.

In This Respect the Modern Athenian Resembles His Early Ancestors.

The Athenians dine late the year round, and whenever the weather will permit, in the open air, says a writer in Scribner's. As the heated season advances the dinner hour is set later and later, until in August 9:30 or 10 becomes the common thing. Fancy going to the theater after that! Yet the open air performances are liberally patronized, and they do not begin, of course, until after dinner. The legend "curtain rises promptly at nine" is a snare and a delusion, as many a foreigner has found to his extreme annoyance.

The out-of-door dining and the sky-roofed theaters are so typically Greek that they serve as a link between modern and classical times. The old Greek, as everybody knows, was an outdoor man, his house serving as little more than a sleeping place and storeroom. The Athenian of to-day dines in a garden, on a terrace or in a park. If he is too poor to possess any of these accessories, he sets his table upon the sidewalk. Many of the cheap restaurants appropriate the walks for dining-rooms. One is often compelled when taking an evening stroll to dodge in and out among dozens of tables covered with reasonably clean linen and lighted by means of candles, whose flames are protected from the wind by means of glass globes.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM. QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN.

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs. Geo. F. Parson & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommend it so highly that I thought it would be worth while to buy a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this liniment to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." or sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised me to trying Electric Bitters, and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cts., guaranteed at C. E. Holton's drug store.

A TESTIMONIAL FROM OLD ENGLAND.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mrs. William Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." Sold by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

CAUGHT A DREADFUL COLD.

Marion Cooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased."

FRIDAY, MAY 17.

HANNA FOR PRESIDENT.

A Washington special to the Philadelphia Record says:

Senator Hanna is pleased with the thought of his friends that he ought to be elected President in 1904, but he can truthfully say that he is not now a candidate for the honor, although he may become a candidate if, three years from now, he thinks that the Republican party is going to win.

Senator Hanna would not care to be put up to be knocked down. He would like very much to be president, but he would not like to be a defeated candidate for President. He said, before leaving today, with evident sincerity, that it was entirely too early to talk about candidates for the next presidential election. If, however, business and political conditions do not materially change in three years, and the outlook then for the election of the Republican ticket seems favorable, Senator Hanna may be a candidate.

Senator Hanna's friends are undoubtedly trying to prepare the way for his nomination if he wants it, and he is not discouraging them. The Republican party organization, so far as it is controlled by the Republican national committee, is now for Hanna, and would probably be so when the time came for him to declare himself, but as he said today: "Anything may happen by that time."

Most any of us, whether we are octopus hunters or merely plain old sordid things that never look out for the people's interests, will agree that Mr. Hanna has a long head, even if Mr. Hearst does make it flat in his pictures. Agreeing on this point we may perhaps agree that he is right in not wanting the nomination unless it is a sure go, though we have known it to be urged against worthy North Carolinaans that they didn't care to fall into the breach when they knew there was not an iota of a chance. But isn't the fact that Mr. Hanna is a little shy yet an encouragement to the Democratic party, provided, of course, that that party returns from the hush-tubs of populism, without which nothing may give it hope?

OLD VETERANS.

An Open Letter From Gen. J. S. Carr to Mr. J. W. Scott.

J. W. Scott, Commander of Guilford County Camp No. 795, Greensboro, N. C.

My Dear Comrade—The approaching reunion of the United Confederate Veterans Association, promises to be notable in many particulars.

The city of Memphis and the veterans of Memphis are sparing neither pains nor expense to make the occasion a grand success and they wait with open arms and a cordial welcome the coming of the old Confederate Veterans weary of years but burdened with honor.

I am being urged to secure a full attendance from North Carolina, and my desire is, to have the "Old Tar Heel" State respond as she so grandly responded in the sixties with the largest muster roll of any of her sister states.

I write to solicit your presence at Memphis, and to ask you to urge all Confederate Veterans with whom you have influence, to attend.

With your cooperation and assistance, it is my earnest desire to have North Carolina where she was at Bethel and Gettysburg "First and Foremost," at Memphis.

Perchance here will be seen at the approaching reunion the largest gathering of old veterans from the South and Southwest that will ever be assembled again, until we shall have "passed over the river, to rest under the shade of the trees" with the immortal spirits of Lee and Jackson, and of Albert Sidney Johnson, and of Pettigrew, and of Brave Pat Calburne, and of Ramsour and of Branch, and of Grimes, and of Wyatt, and the host of others of our comrades, who have already joined the vast majority.

Come, my comrade, and let's make one more grand stand beside the "Father of Waters" and strike hands with the Grand Old Heroes who will gather at Memphis, to live over again the "days of Auld Lang Syne."

My heart is stirred with so many sad memories while I write that I am forced to close. With the prayer that our Father in Heaven bless you, and grant me the pleasure of your cordial hand shake in Memphis.

Round trip from Greensboro, N. C. to Memphis $14.80. Reunion May 28, to 30.

With sincere good wishes, I promise ever to remain,

Your faithful friend and obedient servant,

J. S. CARR,
Maj Gen'l. Comdg N. C. Div. U. C. V.

OVER $150,000,000 IN ASHES.

Old Carnegie Company Bonds Are Officially Destroyed.

"After supplying fuel for a close furnace for a week, securities representing over $150,000,000 of Pittsburgh wealth lie smouldering in the great armor-plate vault of the Union Trust Company of Pittsburg. They were the gilt-edged securities of the Carnegie Company, the launching of which signalized the practical close of the famous business quarrel of Andrew Carnegie and Henry C. Frick. The bonds of the greatest industrial corporation of the world till the United States Steel Corporation was formed were of such bulk that they would completely fill to the ceiling a room 6 by 12 feet. For a round week there was kept busy at the Union Trust Company a force of men to feed the furnace fire which destroyed the securities. The great pile of gold bonds has passed out of existence and with the crematory pile of ashes there is born assurance that the United States Steel Corporation is a thing real and living.

"Of the Carnegie bonds it is well known there are $160,000,000, but less than $10,000,000 were not turned into the trust company. Part of these may be accounted for in the $5,000,000 bond-trust of Andrew Carnegie for the Homestead, Duquesne and Braddock-Carnegie libraries and for a death and accident benefit and pension fund for the men of the Carnegie Company.

"To the unsophisticated in bonds the loss of the destroyed issue may be inconceivable. The bonds burned had face value varying from $1,000 to $20,000. Their receipt and filling for the Union Trust Company vault fire was the work of a month for the bank employees."

Cotton Growing in Cuba.

The Tradesman.

It is said that the Havana Western Railway is trying to induce planters to begin cotton growing in the Island of Cuba. It has procured a quantity of seed from Egypt and the sea island plantations of Georgia and sections of Mississippi Valley, and is having a pamphlet printed in Spanish for distribution with the seed, which is to be freely given out to planters or owners along the line who are willing to experiment with the fibre. If a sufficient number plant the seed the railroad will put up a cotton gin and all the necessary machinery for the convenience of the growers at convenient points. Cotton was cultivated extensively in the district 50 years ago, and today cotton trees 20 feet high are to be found growing wild in many parts of the district, the fibre, however, being coarse and green.

WANTS THE TREES.

"Citizen" Says if More Light is Needed to Use Prism—Fable of North Wind and the Sun.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

Several days ago your paper stated that the trees just in front of the post office were to be cut down; that they interfered with the light in the post office. I am distressed to learn this and I hope the order will be revoked. These trees are an ornament to our city; they beautify the government premises in a way that no amount of artifice can contrive to take their place. They make the lower room of the post office building cooler. Therefore if for light they are to be removed, we suggest the use of prisms on the other windows and a little trimming of the trees; and if for comfort they are to be removed, we recommend that the government folks read that fable of the north wind and the sun.

Now I've spoken to people incidentally about this matter and it seems to be a consensus of opinion that the trees ought to stay. Now Uncle Sam can't you indulge us this time?

Two Brokerage Firms Go to the Wall.

Washington, May 16.—The stock brokerage firm of Gurley & Johnson, in this city, has failed, and notice of the suspension of business will be posted on its doors tomorrow. The open accounts make up a total of $450,000. The liabilities are $190,000.

New York, May 16.—Gustave E. Graff and Thomas E. Newins, composing the firm of G. E. Graff & Co., stock and bond brokers, made an assignment today for the benefit of their creditors. The firm was a member of the consolidated exchange and was caught in the recent squeeze. The liabilities are said to be about $300,000, with assets of $150,000.

Chicago Post.

"But you will recall, my dear," he protested in his attempt to dissuade her "that Eve did not wear a picture hat."

"True she admitted, "and Adam did not smoke cigars."

Here he was silent.

"There was many things that both Adam and Eve lacked," she went on. "It is, I think, unnecessary that I should mention them all, but if you believe that we should get back to first principles, don't you think, as a lord of creation, you should set the example?"

"You shall have the hat," was all he said.

THE MASON'S ENTERTAINED.

THEIR RECEPTION AT THE STATE NORMAL YESTERDAY.

The Play An Enjoyable One—Ivanhoe Commandery Dented Fifty Dollars in Gold to the Students' Building Fund.

The entertainment given yesterday afternoon by the students of the State Normal College complimentary to the visiting Masons was a most enjoyable occasion. The spectacular parade by the Knights Templar was a scene to be remembered. The line of march was formed in front of the Masonic Hall, and the procession was headed by a band. Upon their arrival at the Normal the Knights Templar were each given a glass of lemonade as they entered the building. This act on the part of the institution was very thoughtful and was much appreciated by the Knights. The program was opened by music by the orchestra. The Masons were welcomed in a short speech by Miss Susie Bowing, of Durham, on behalf of the students.

The play was in one act and was called "A Chinese Dummy."

It was well received and much enjoyed by the large audience present. A feature of the exercises was the singing by the Normal Glee Club. Their first song elicited such bursts of applause as to cause them to reappear upon the stage and sing again.

Mr. John C. Drewry, of Raleigh, Eminent Deputy Grand Commander, in a graceful speech thanked the President of the Institution and the students for the entertainment, on behalf of the Grand Commandery.

Gen. James D. Glenn in behalf of Ivanhoe Commandery, presented the young ladies, for their building fund, fifty dollars in gold, to show the appreciation of Ivanhoe Commandery for their entertainment. The speech of Gen. Glenn was replied to by Miss Laura Sanford, of Mocksville, in a few well chosen words.

At the conclusion of the entertainment, the Knights marched to the front of the main building and were photographed standing on the steps, by Sir Knight Alderman, of this city. Standing among the Masons, when the picture was taken, was Miss Tucker, a student at the college, who is being educated by the Masons.

The procession was then reformed and marched back to the city by way of Greensboro Female College and West Market street.

The Shriners met last night in the K. of P. Hall, and initiated sixteen candidates. No officers were elected at this session, it being merely a ceremonial session.

After the session, the Shriners repaired to Hotel Huffines, and enjoyed a sumptuous banquet, which lasted until about three o'clock this morning. In speaking of the banquet today, the proprietors of the hotel remarked that it was the most orderly body of banqueters that they had ever handled. About twenty-five speeches were made during the night by different members present. Mr. Jake Barringer, of South Carolina, was the toast master.

Covers were laid for one hundred and one. The menu is reproduced.

MUSIC FOR WINSTON.

Prof. Brockman's Quintette Will Play for the Commencement There.

The Brockmann string band went to Winston this afternoon to play at the commencement exercises of the Graduated Schools there. Those who went were Prof. Charles J. TRINITY COLLEGE ASSOCIATION FORMED HERE LAST NIGHT BY FRIENDS AND FORMER STUDENTS.

Dr. J. C. Kilgo, President of the College, Present and Reviewed the Work Done by the Institution in the Past Ten Years.

At a meeting held last night in the Trinity College, to form an organization of Prof. O. W. Carr by the friends here among friends and former students of the institution. About fifteen persons were present, and the meeting was a very enthusiastic one. Mr. C. H. Ireland was made secretary and in a short but comprehensive speech, explained the object of the meeting. He said they wanted to bring together the friends of Trinity, and organizethem into an effective body, to do whatever was necessary to bring the College before the public and to take advantage of whatever resources lay within their grasp. He was followed by Dr. J. C. Kilgo, president of the College, who went over the history of the institution for the past ten years, and showed the progress they had made, and the increase in the number of professors and instructors.

Dr. Dred Peacock, president of the Greensboro Female College, was also present and made a talk upon his institution, telling of what his school was doing.

Those present, with the exception of one or two who would be perturbed by business engagements from attending promised to spend at least one day during the approaching commencement of Trinity at that institution.

DR. M'IVER'S THANKS.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE NORMAL SPEAKS OF THE RECENT GIFTS TO STUDENT'S BUILDING FUND.

Dr. Charles D. McIver, when seen by a Telegram reporter made the following statement regarding the recent gifts to the students' building fund from the Knights of Pythias and the Masons. He said:

"The State Normal and Industrial College and all connected therewith greatly appreciate the generous action of the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias which recently presented $40 to the Students' Building Fund, and the similar gift of $50 received yesterday from the Ivanhoe Lodge of Masons of this city.

"The occasion for these gifts were state meetings of the representative orders, and the efforts of the students of The State Normal and Industrial College to aid the local Masons and Knights of Pythias to entertain their friends and brethren.

"These donations came as a delightful surprise to our students, and while they expected no compensation they accept gladly the aid towards securing the Students' Building, which will supply society halls, a Young Women's Christian Association room and library and other offices for the students.

"We all count it a privilege to share with Greensboro or with any organization in the city in the entertainment of its guests. The pleasure derived therefrom is ample compensation but for the students and the college I desire to make this public acknowledgement of the generous action of the citizens of Greensboro who have treated us so kindly."

ELK MINSTRELS TO PARADE AT SIX O'CLOCK.

R. W. MURRAY GRAND MASTER

GRAND LODGE OF ODD FELLOWS TO MEET HERE NEXT YEAR.

A Reception to be Given in Buena Vista Hall Tuesday Night—Speeches by L. M. Scott and A. B. Kimball.

The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, in session on this week at Asheville, adjourned yesterday afternoon. The next meeting of the Grand Lodge will be held in Greensboro some time in July, 1902.

As will be seen from the account of the meeting given below, Mr. R. W. Murray, of this city, has been elected Grand Master, the highest position of Odd Fellowship in the State. In view of this honor being conferred upon a member of their lodge, the members of Buena Vista Lodge will meet Mr. Murray tonight on his arrival from Asheville, and escort him to his home on Asheboro street. Next Tuesday night they will give a reception, complimentary to him, in their hall on West Market street. While this reception will be for the members of the order a few invited guests will be present. Mr. Levi M. Scott, who was Grand Master in 1868, will give a brief review of Odd Fellowship from that date to the present time, and Mr. A. B. Kimball will deliver an address.

In addition to the Grand Lodge meeting in Greensboro next year, the Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows, which meets this year during the early part of August in Elizabeth City, will also meet here.

The following account of the Grand Lodge meeting is taken from the Asheville correspondent of the Charlotte Observer:

Asheville, May 16.—Today the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. appropriated $2,000 to establish a system of water works and sewerage at the Orphanage Home in Goldsboro. N. Jacobi was re-elected trustee for five years and Chas. Dewey, of Goldsboro, trustee in place of W. T. Dorche, resigned.

The election of officers was as follows: R. W. Murray, Greensboro, grand master; J. F. Griffith, of Winston, deputy grand master; L. B. McBrayer, of Asheville, grand warden; B. H. Woodell, of Raleigh, grand secretary; R. J. Jones, of Wilmington, grand treasurer; M. W. Jacobi, of Wilmington, grand representative for two years; Dr. John A. Stevens, of Clinton, grand representative for one year.

George Green, grand patriarch of the encampment, will remain over tomorrow evening to be with the Asheville encampment. Past Grand Master Blanks, of Petersburg, Va., attending the Royal Arcanum supreme council, is an enthusiastic Odd Fellow. He will be tendered a reception by the Swannanoa Lodge tomorrow evening.

This afternoon the visiting ladies were given a tally-ho ride, which they seemed to enjoy greatly. They all carried tin horns and what they did for the little trumpets was a plenty. Or the returnees were served at the Candy Kitchen.

The work of the Grand Lodge practically closed today, but Grand Secretary Woodell will remain here for a few days, winding up his business.

The entertainment at the Casino tonight in honor of the grand lodge was a brilliant success. The musical numbers were superb, especially the solos of Mrs. J. A. Blair, of the Cincinnati College of Music. It is sufficient to say of Past Grand Sire Chas. M. Busbee that his most sanguine friends were not disappointed in the masterful address he made.

The supreme council of the Royal Arcanum devoted their morning session to petitions, the appointment of numerous committees and general routine work. This afternoon a drive was taken through Biltmore, and tonight was devoted to the exemplification of degree work by French Broad Council. Nearly every state, as well as Canada, is represented among the delegates.

BRITISHERS GOOD GUNNERS.

New World's Record Established By the Men Serving the Guns on the Battleship Terrible.

A new world's record has been established by the gunners of her majesty's ship Terrible, the big battleship of the Asiatic squadron. The percentages of actual hits made in target practice with the six-inch guns on the Terrible was 76.8. The Terrible had two 9.2 and 12.5-inch guns, the shooting from the former being also a brilliant record, 60 per cent. of hits having been made. Four captains of guns made "possibles," two with ten and two with nine rounds.

The "misses" would have been "hits" had a ship been substituted for the target.

Wine of Cardui

It isn't necessary for a woman to give particulars. When she says she has "female troubles," other women know what that means. It means days and nights of endless suffering. It means headaches which no tongue can describe. It means that terrible bearing and dragging down in the lower abdomen. It means ache, and arm ache, and aches in the lower limbs. It means nerves on edge—the blues—despondency and loss of hope. It means debilitating and still Wine of Cardui will utterly put those diseases and pains to rout. It has cured thousands of cases when nothing else on earth would. To the budding woman, to the bride, to the wife, to the expectant mother, to those going through the Change of Life, this Vegetable

Aren't Men Ungrateful

AT ONE o'clock on Monday afternoon last Mr. Jobson brought an old schoolmate of his, whom he hadn't seen or heard of for years, up to his house for lunch.

Monday, it is not necessary to remind our gentle readers, is wash day in all well-regulated households.

Mr. Jobson hadn't been home for lunch, except on Sundays and holidays, for years. Of course, it just happened that out of the seven days in the week Mr. Jobson could have lighted on none other so suitable for bringing an old boyhood chum up to his home for luncheon as on Monday—wash day. Men don't know anything about the dreariness of wash day, anyhow. They see the ironed linen stacked up on the bed on Thursday evening, say, and they vaguely wonder how it was done and where it came from and who did it, and so on. If rainy weather or some other interposition of providence prevents its being stacked up on the bed on Thursday evening, and the boss of the house happens to be out of handkerchiefs, he gazes wistfully at the wife of his bosom, accuses her of spending all her time at the bargain counters to the total neglect of her household duties, and in general gives vent to a torrid flow of masculine unreason. That's the extent of the male knowledge of linen cleansing.

Mr. Jobson happened to have forgotten his latch key when he went to the office on Monday morning, and so when he brought along his old school pal to his house he rang the door bell. The servant being busy in the basement handling the washing, Mrs. Jobson, thinking that the bell ringer was probably a rug peddler or book agent or some such personage, answered the ring herself. Mrs. Jobson had been assisting the servant with the linen. She was in an out-at-elbows red eiderdown wrapper, with the sleeves rolled way up, and her hair was done up tightly in kids. Her nose was shiny from the steam of wash day. When she saw Mr. Jobson and his swell-looking companion, she simply bolted up the front stairs for it, Mr. Jobson exuding a merriment, if somewhat hard sounding, laugh as she went.

"Ah, caught you in house negligee, did we, my dear?" he called up the stairs after her in a rollicking, oh-how-naughty-naughty tone voice, that yet had a certain metallic ring in Mrs. Jobson's ears.

"I'll be down in just a minute," called Mrs. Jobson over the banisters, and then Mr. Jobson and his old school chum went into the parlor. Mrs. Jobson hastily dug out the powder chamois and touched up her face, put on presentable garments, removed the kids from her hair and set it right, and then she made her appearance in the parlor.

"My dear, you've often heard me speak of Tommy Swiftboy, my old schoolmate, haven't you?" said Mr. Jobson, formally presenting his friend to his wife. "Remember my telling you how we played hooky once for three weeks at a stretch and hid our books under a sidewalk every day? Well, here's the self-same hooky player—blew in on me at my office this morning, and, although I wouldn't say it to his face, I'm just tickled to death to see him. Brought him up to see what a nice little plant I've got—his dad used to say that we'd both of us land in state's prison before we came of age. And here I am, a settled-down old fogey, and he's got a wife and three children—got their pictures in his watch—at his home in New York. I wanted to drag him off to a restaurant for a bite to eat, but he wouldn't hear of it—wanted to look me over under my own vine and fig tree, he said, and he hates restaurant or hotel cookery. Can't we have just a little bite of luncheon, my dear?"

Mr. Jobson gazed at Mrs. Jobson amiably, but with a meeting of the eyebrows that said, as plain as day: "And it wants to be an almighty neat luncheon, at that!"

Mrs. Jobson's heart sank as she thought of the remains of Sunday's turkey in the refrigerator, and nothing else. The steamy fragrance of the wash-day suds that permeated the house caught Mr. Jobson's nostrils, and he sniffed wonderingly and with no manifestations of enthusiasm over it. "Nothing elaborate, my dear, you know," said Mr. Jobson, with a searching look at Mrs. Jobson. "Just what you've got in the ice chest, you know. Mr. Swiftboy is a domestic man, and he understands that we may have taken you unprepared."

Mr. Jobson's glances at Mrs. Jobson said as plainly as if the words were written on a placard hanging around his neck: "You just want to see to it that there's a top-notch lunch on the table in just 15 minutes, or there'll be some echoes around here later on."

Mrs. Jobson, after a moment's desultory conversation, excused herself, ran down the basement steps, placed a hat on the colored woman's head and sent her out by the alley gate after luncheon food. It was mostly of the delicatessen and canned variety. There was some sliced tongue and ham, potato ham, canned salmon, hurriedly-constructed potato salad, the remains of Sunday's turkey, raspberry jam and coffee and tea on the table when, after a frenzied scurrying around, Mrs. Jobson got the table set with fresh napery and the best silver and called the men to luncheon. Mr. Jobson surveyed the table approvingly, as did his old school chum, who was a well-groomed looking man, who looked as if he might be no stranger to lobsters and grilled bones.

"Well, my dear, you've certainly done very well, considering how little you expected us," said Mr. Jobson, beamingly, and then they went at the lunch.

"Oh, by the way, have you any bottled beer on ice?" asked Mr. Jobson, after a moment.

"No," replied Mrs. Jobson, "the last was used on Saturday, and the beer man hasn't been around yet, but I can send—"

"Oh, never mind, my dear—never mind at all," said Mr. Jobson, amiably. "Get along bully without it, can't we, Swiftboy? Guess we'd be a heap better off without the stuff, anyhow."

Then Mr. Jobson, while his friend was bending over his plate, gave Mrs. Jobson a glance that contained a world of meaning.

"Swiftboy," said Mr. Jobson, "you'll have to overlook this hasty affair, but you know—"

"Overlook it?" interrupted his friend, helping himself liberally to the salad.

"Overlook it? I guess not. I'm going to do just the best I know how by it.

It's immense—haven't enjoyed things to eat so much since I left home. Mrs. Jobson, I congratulate you upon your skill in formulating a luncheon in a case of emergency."

Thus the luncheon passed off, and awhile after it was over the two men went downtown. There was a steely glitter in Mr. Jobson's eye when he returned home that evening.

"Madam," he inquired of Mrs. Jobson, as soon as he had taken off his hat, "what do you think this establishment is—a New York soubrette's dat?"

"Why, what are you—" Mrs. Jobson started to answer.

"When I invite a friend, a substantial business man, up to my home for luncheon," continued Mr. Jobson, sternly, "can't you do any better than to re-

gale him and load him up with stuff

such as a Miss Tottie Coughdrop sets before her chorus girl friends when she asks them to a one a. m. feed?"

"But you brought him so unexpectedly, and—"

"What kind of stuff do you think grocery store sliced ham is to set before one of your husband's guests? Couldn't you have rung in some cold boiled onions? What kind of a way is it, anyhow, to send a black servant somersaulting and handspringing out the alley gate after zinc-inclosed eatables when guests are sitting in the parlor waiting for something wherewithal to appease their hunger? Why couldn't you have had some nice homemade oyster patties, for instance? How about a couple of fried chickens? Wouldn't they have been about the thing? Do you ever cook anything around here, anyhow, except the stuff that you dole out to me at dinner? Have you ever got anything fit to eat stowed away in the ice box, like other civilized people? Do you—"

"But to-day is wash day, and—"

"It wouldn't make any difference if it was Decoration day, or Independence day, or Labor day, or any other old day; you'd have to kite that servant out the alley, and—oh, and by the way, it's mighty funny what becomes of all the beer—not even a bottle of beer to give the man, I'd like—"

"Now, you know that nobody in the house touches it but yourself, and—"

"Mighty queer where it goes; mysterious, to say the least. Whole thing was the worst frost, the dismallest make-believe for a luncheon that I ever saw, and that's no—"

"But Mr. Swiftboy said that he really enjoyed it, and he said—"

"Yes; I know what he said. That was sarcasm, Mrs. Jobson—plain, every day sarcasm. I'll bet he said to himself while he was getting off those remarks that the next time any friend of his hailed him for a home luncheon there'd be blue apples on peach trees!

And that's what there'll be the next time I invite a friend up here for a bunco luncheon, Mrs. Jobson—just remember that!"—Washington Star.

may be almost safely set down as wanting red in her blood. If subject to dizziness, fainting, shortness of breath or slight exertion, no doubt remains.

To want red in the blood is to fall of the good of one's food.

Her food is not nourishing her. She needs a change.

The easiest change she can get, and one of the best, is Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

It gives her the upper hand in the contest—her food has the upper hand now—she is pale no more.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
